

pledges amounting to $758 received by telephone and messenger since the filing of their reports.

With the fund still $223 short of completion, Mr. Wood called for additional pledges to make up the deficit, with no response. A dramatic minute followed, with everybody waiting for the unexpected to happen. At this moment the blunder of the campaign arrived in the person of W. Frank Powers, of the Citizens' Committee, who set loose a surging sea of applause with the announcement that he had conditional subscriptions from business men who had contributed to the fund earlier in the campaign, amounting to $2,100. He explained that the subscriptions were made under the impression of stern necessity, and that no use was to be made of them unless they were actually needed to stave off disaster. With the fund so nearly complete, he recommended that the sum still needed be taken pro rata from these emergency contributions, and the balance be returned to the men who had so generously rallied to the support of the movement in its final hour. In this suggestion he was supported by the opinion of the assembly.

Save the Doxology.
"It is unnecessary for me to say," remarked Chairman Wood, at this point, "that the fund for the Young Women's Christian Association building is complete, and that the campaign has been successful," and the assembly rose to the occasion with an outburst of cheering and applause which shook the structure to its foundations.

With the excitement at its highest, Director Williams raised his hands as a signal for quiet and asked the audience to join in singing the doxology. The familiar "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" acquired a new significance as it gushed forth from the throats of the weary bands of men and women who for the past fortnight had given their best efforts to the cause. It was a moment of gratitude, and the grand old hymn of thanksgiving supplied the outlet for the feeling which fought for expression.

In a short speech appreciative of her work in the campaign, John Stewart Bryson presented to Miss Katharine Hawes, president of the Y. W. C. A., a large bunch of yellow chrysanthemums from her co-workers. She appeared deeply touched by this mark of devotion and replied with a short speech in a voice trembling with emotion and threatening to break down every moment.

Now that the campaign was ended she told her hearers the least that the Young Women's Christian Association can do is to promise that the greatest care will be exercised in expending the money so generously contributed, and that every effort will be made to make the money go as far as it possibly can. She offered the thanks of the association to the earnest body of men and women that had made success possible, and particularly to the business men of the city, who had given their services to the cause in the busiest time of the year. "God bless you and keep you every one," she said, and sat down amid wild applause.

Many Other Speakers.
"I never was in anything in all my life that gave me as much unalloyed happiness as participating in this campaign," declared John Stewart Bryson, who was the next speaker. "The best of it all is that we have succeeded in our efforts, and have not alone raised the great building in our city, but have had the effect of lifting our individual selves above ourselves." The great commercial success of the city in the past score of years has caused him to fear, he said, that Richmond would degenerate into a Pittsburgh, but the brilliant success of the present movement has rendered this fear groundless.

Attn. Counsellor MacCorkle, secretary of the association, who was next called on, said: "There is no man stored up glory in my heart to-night that my voice cannot utter it." He commended especially the splendid efficiency of the women in both of the women's committees, in particular the great service of Mrs. J. Scott Parrish and her committee, The Young Women's Committee, under the leadership of Miss Katharine Hawes, shared equally in the glory, having raised a larger sum of money than any of the other four committees.

John G. Pollard presented a resolution which had been prepared by W. S. Rhoads, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, appreciative of the "faithful, efficient and cheerful services during the past week."

Numerous other resolutions were presented carrying thanks to the local press, to the labors of the finance committee, and finally to the cooks who, by preparing the daily luncheon, had served 42,200 cups of coffee and spoons of viands, without breaking or damaging a single piece of china or culinary instrument.

In the course of the speaking it was announced from the platform that an additional subscription of $500 had been received from the employees of the American Locomotive Works. The generous act called forth continued cheering and applause.

A auditing committee was appointed, consisting of John Stewart Bryson, chairman; W. S. Rhoads, and John G. Pollard. The meeting adjourned after carrying a resolution of thanks to the chairman of the executive committee, H. W. Wood, for his services in the campaign, and closed with a short speech of appreciation.

At the midday luncheon the tabulation of the morning work showed that $129,588 had been subscribed, leaving a balance of $16,920 to be raised between the end of the campaign. The final figures representing the work of the committees during the whole campaign, appear below.

One Application and the Hairs are Gone
(Aids to Beauty.)
Women troubled with fuzzy growths will be delighted to learn that a simple application of common powdered delatone and water will remove every trace of hair without pain or injury. If the growth is very thick or stubborn, a second application may be required.

The delatone paste is spread thickly on the hairy surface, and after two or three minutes rubbed off, then the skin washed and dried. Druggists charge a dollar for an original ounce package of delatone, but to those suffering with superfluous growths it is worth several times this sum to know of a reliable and quick way in which to permanently rid the skin of hair or fuzz without having to endure pain.

As usual our clothing is divided into three classes: The extreme, pronounced style. The medium style. The conservative. So every taste that is good taste, can be satisfied here. Fuzzy hats to match the fuzzy suitings.

PROHIBITION LOSES
Many Women Vote Against It in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., December 6.—Complete returns from 215 out of 217 precincts in yesterday's municipal election five George Alexander, incumbent, candidate of the "Good Government League" for Mayor $3,970, and Job Harrison, Socialist, 52,293.

The entire good government ticket was elected. No Socialist candidate for any office came within 25,000 votes of winning.

Of the successful candidates for members of the Board of Education, Joseph Scott, who was allied with the counsel for the defense of the McNamara brothers, finished last. He is now president of the board.

Prohibition was defeated, there being 31,591 votes for it, and 87,344 against. Many women voted against the measure.

GOMPERS IS BEING CLOSELY WATCHED

When asked about it, "There probably is considerable law on the subject."

Attorneys connected with the McNamara defense said that the only reason the McNamara might not be called would be that it would do no good, as any one could testify before a grand jury, State or Federal.

Attorney Joseph Scott added to this opinion that a convicted felon, after testifying before a grand jury, could not go into court as a witness.

Lawyer had a conference to-day with Malcolm McLaren, agent of the detective agency which arrested the McNamara and Orville McManigal. The confessions of McManigal were considered by the grand jury whether the McNamara grand jury whether the McNamara grand jury.

Men fairly close to the McNamara to-day said there were small chances that James B. McNamara, who received a life sentence, rubbed in by a score of men, Judge Walter Bordwell, would talk before the grand jury to an extent that would complicate any one else.

Will Implicate No One.
"The McNamara are not going to implicate any one," said one of their counsel. "They are not going to appear before the grand jury." An officer of the State also inclined to this view.

Commitments to take the "men" to the penitentiary were made up yesterday, but were not served. They will be held until the "grand jury question is settled."

Clay Monroe, of Judge Bordwell's court, appeared to-day before the court with a stack of telegrams and letters, which had accumulated since last Friday, when the McNamara confessed.

"Do you wish to see these, judge?" he asked.
"No," he said. "You may keep them."

Many of the letters demand the death penalty for James B. McNamara, and some bore signatures of local labor unions. They were destroyed.

The course the Federal grand jury will take when it begins its work on the alleged conspiracy to dynamite work on buildings throughout the country may be indicated by the explosion which have occurred on the Pacific coast. Indianapolis, it was said, could take care of the rest.

A report that Milton A. Schmidt and David Caplan, indicted here for murder in connection with the Times building dynamite, were about to be arrested, and the crowd gathered in interest to-night. Except James B. McNamara himself, Schmidt is said to know more about the Times disaster than any other man. Schmidt, Caplan and McNamara were together on various expeditions. It is said.

PLAN OF ACTION IS DISCUSSED

Committee on Ways and Means Looks Over Tariff Situation.

TO START WORK AT ONCE

Omnibus Tariff Bill Is Suggested by Some Leaders in Congress.

Washington, December 6.—The first meeting of the Democratic members of the House Committee on Ways and Means since adjournment of Congress last August, was held to-day. Chairman Underwood and his colleagues discussed the general tariff situation and considered the plan of action for the session.

Following the meeting no announcement was made. Probably none will be made until after President Taft sends to Congress the report of the tariff board on wool and cotton.

The committee, however, will begin at once the preliminary work of revising schedules. Included in the program for tariff revision will be wool, cotton, iron and steel, sugar, agricultural implements and food stuffs.

A scheme to link some of the schedules already passed in the extra session, but vetoed by the President, in to one omnibus tariff bill, has been discussed by some of the leaders in Congress, but it was insisted to-day that the committee idea of revision schedule by schedule would be carried out. It was stated that no report from the present and participated in the discussions.

Two similar sessions will be held to-morrow, at which time papers will be read on typhoid fever by Lieutenant-Commander Percy Randall, U. S. N., and the prevention of typhoid fever in the military service, by Major Frederick P. Reynolds.

HALL, HARTWELL & CO. Troy, New York

Los Angeles, Cal., December 6.—There need not be subpoenas issued to have the McNamara brothers testify before the Federal grand jury," was the assertion made to-night by Oscar Lawrence, special prosecutor of the United States government, who is trying to determine whether there is a dynamiting conspiracy extending over the country.

"A subpoena is issued only to force a man to testify," he added.

"The Federal grand jury to-morrow is ready to hear the testimony concerning the alleged conspiracies the McNamara brothers might be taken to the Federal building by Sheriff Hammill."

Asked concerning subpoenas, Clarence S. Darrow, counsel for the prisoners, remarked that though no subpoenas had been served, unofficial notice had been given the brothers that they would be called to-morrow before the Federal grand jury.

"I commented that they will say much," he said.

There was a persistent rumor to-night that three prominent labor leaders of California would be called before the grand jury, and one of the most startling reports was that the grand jury would cite one of the most prominent labor leaders in the country to appear before it.

The latter speculation grew out of the report that while the bribery charges in the case of Bert H. Franklin, a detective employed by the McNamara defense, rested chiefly on evidence gathered here, well-founded belief existed in the minds of those who had uncovered the alleged bribery plot that persons outside of Los Angeles were interested in the manipulation of funds to influence the jury.

Others Implicated.
"Don't people think that somebody else besides certain persons here was interested in seeing that the jury was influenced?" asked Samuel L. Browne, chief of the department of investigation of the county. Browne arrested Franklin and gathered the State's evidence against him. He added that he had certain telegrams and letters in his possession which implicated outside persons.

It was reported to-night that through the misuse of the mails the bribery of the Federal grand jury.

Three conferences were held to-day in Judge Bordwell's chambers. District Attorney Fredericks called twice, and Assistant District Attorney Ford was closeted with the judge for half an hour. Ford has charge of the evidence in the case of Franklin, which will come up next Monday for preliminary hearing. The only procedure then, it was said, would be to determine whether the evidence warranted holding Franklin to a higher court.
